There are literally thousands of Photoshop tutorials online, and new software updates bring new features and more functionality every year. In this tutorial, you will learn the basics of using Photoshop's Layers and Merging functions. There are some introductory tutorials for creating images using Photoshop, but to learn basic digital photo editing or web design skills, you need to focus on building a foundation in the basics first. The first part of this tutorial will show you how to create the image you see in the Layers panel in Photoshop. You'll learn how to use the Select tool to select a portion of the image. Next, you'll learn how to use the Rectangular Marquee tool to select an area and the Magic Wand tool to select a selection. Finally, you'll learn how to blend and merge selections, sharpen a selection, create a mask, and add a text effect to your image. Layers in Photoshop Layers are used to create custom effects on images. When you create a new document, the default is to use the Full Size (8.0 × 11.0 inches or 20 × 28 centimeters) canvas. Layers are a way to apply effects on an image without altering the original source. A common practice in designing on a computer is to use layers and multiple images to form a one-of-a-kind image. Q: Laravel Eloquent ORM - Remove an array from an array I'm doing an assessment for a job, and I've been handed a pretty awful mess. I think I need to use Eloquent for part of this job, but it's a lot more difficult to do than most of the tutorials I've come across! What I've got is a bunch of authors, which in turn have chapters (in their DB). Each book has a few chapters, and each chapter has a few tags. So I have authors: $authors = Author::all(); which will return an array of authors and has a book_id field in it's primary table (like here). Now, what I'm trying to do is take that list of authors, go through all of the authors' chapters and count the number of times each tag appears in the chapter. So I get something like $authors = Author::all(); array (0 => array (0 => 'John Smith', 'title' => 'Alpha Beta', 'book_id' => 12), 1 => array (0 => 'Jane Doe', 'title' => 'Gamma Delta', 'book_id' => 6), ... etc...) Now, for each of the authors, I would like to count up how many of their chapters have the tag 'Alpha' and 'Beta'. So if I do this, I would get something like: $authors = Author::all(); array (0 => array (0 => 'John Smith', 'title' => 'Alpha Beta
